FOREWORD

High school days, filled with hard work and happy events, are days which we will try to remember and cherish.

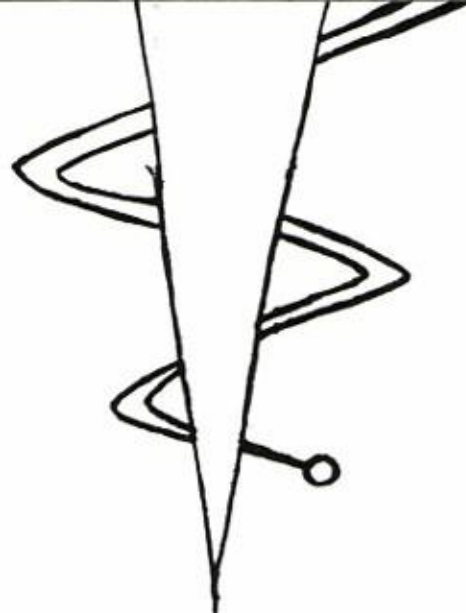

As we become older, we will probably forget some of those happy events. Then this yearbook will be our only record of the happy days that we can never live again. Through this book we will be able to recapture again the activities and laughter of the days of our youth in Alta High. This is our record of those memorable days.

NEVAN RANEE HUNT

Nevan joined our class in our sophomore year and was a member until her passing October 23, 1957.

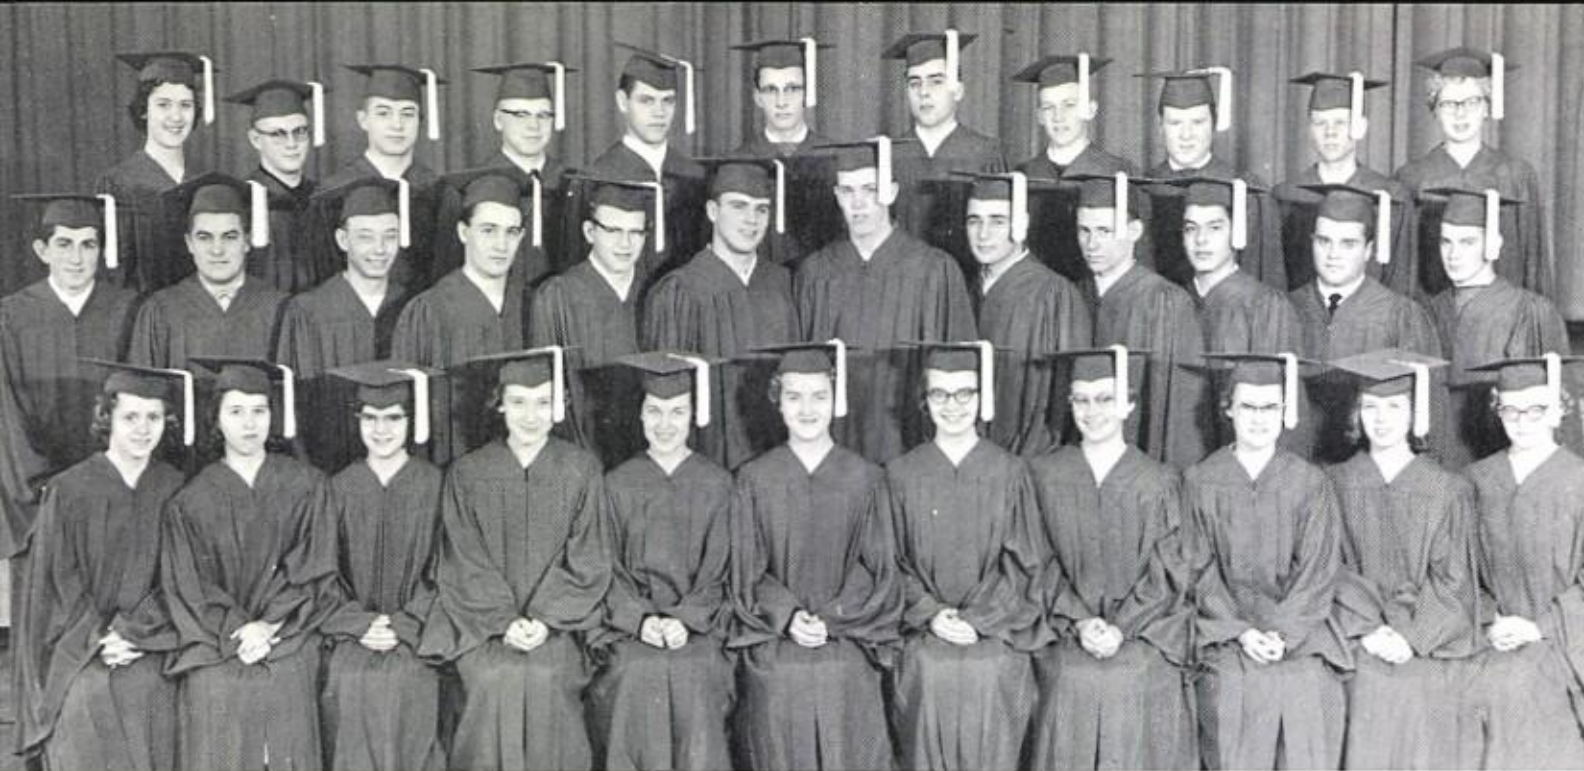

She was with us only a short while but in that time she made many friends with her warm heart and winning smile.

As Seniors we are facing an end and looking forward to a new beginning. We have overcome many disappointments, experienced a wealth of fun, and, we hope, gained the education suitable for our future years. We may not be the best class that graduated from Alta High — we cannot be judges of that. But we have accepted our challenge and worked forward — each as his ability would allow. If we are remembered for nothing else, let it be that.

NIGHT OF JANUARY SIXTEENTH

Strictly speaking, the "Night of January 16th" is a play without a heroine, but Connie Lichtenberg was chosen for the leading feminine part, that of Karen Andre, defendant in the murder trial. Nor had it a hero, the principal male role being that of the prosecuting attorney, Kenneth Quirk, and the defense attorney, Norman Peterson.

Twelve important members of the cast were chosen the night of the performance. These were the jury, who listened to the evidence and rendered their 10-2 verdict of guilty!

Our Faculty in the Community

HOME IS WHERE YOU MAKE IT

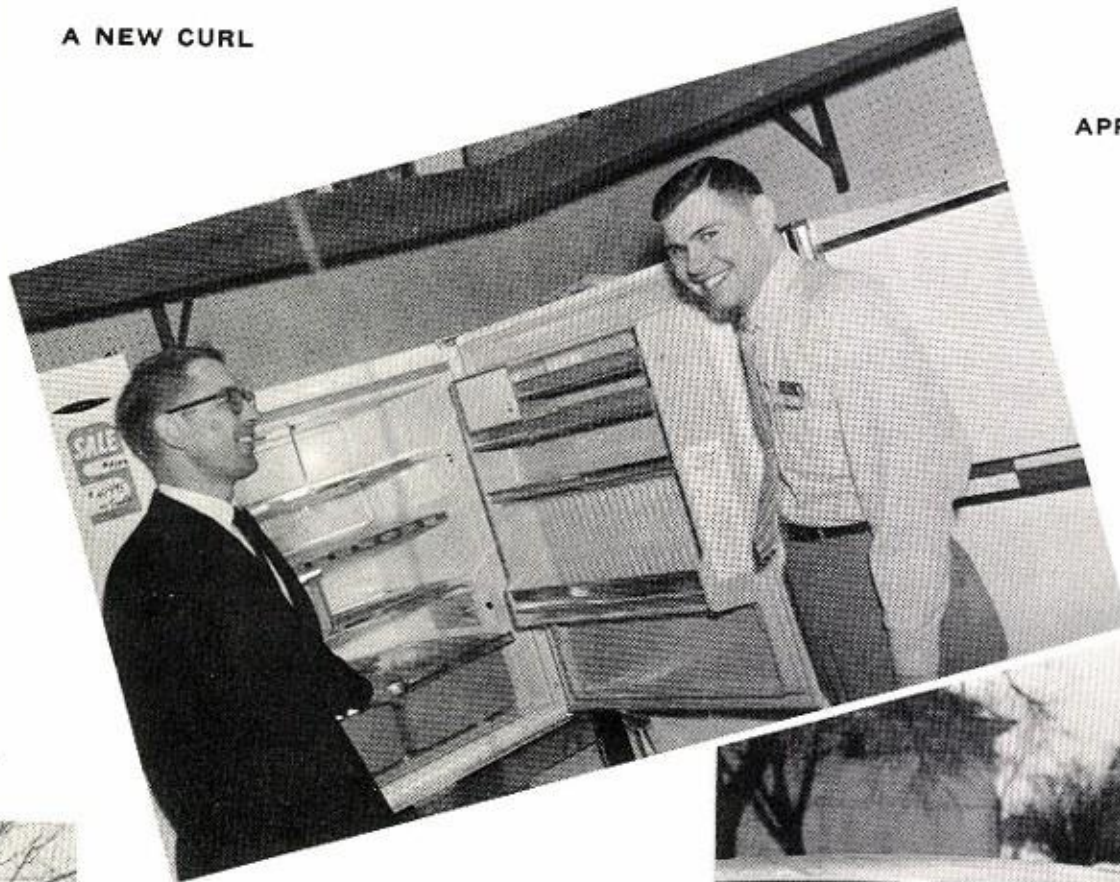

Every school system has its teachers. Unfortunately, they are often isolated in this realm. We are very proud of the part our teachers play in the community life of Alta. Some of them have made their permanent homes here and are interested in the future of the town. You'll find them in various churches, leading choirs and teaching Sunday school. During the summer their work takes them to business houses and the community swimming pool. In case of fire they do their part with the volunteer fire department. As high school students, we have found our teachers ready to help us with all our problems. This then, is our faculty.

Cyclone Staff

Editor Doris Johnson and her capable assistant editors, Karen Ankerson and Norman Peterson with the help of Senior editor Janet Swanson and Junior editors, Alice Noble and Diane Holtz, all under the supervision of Max Fuller, the staff advisor, headed this year's publication of the Cyclone. The entire staff worked diligently to make this yearbook a success.

The yearbook's many activities included the annual yearbook dance which was held March 5. King Bob McDonald and Queen Sally Carpenter were chosen from the ten salesmen who sold the most yearbooks. They reigned over the evening's festivities. All yearbook alumni were invited to attend the dance. Early in the spring a yearbook picnic was held, all members enjoyed themselves.

The yearbook which is financed entirely by yearbook sales is a pictorial history of the school's activities during the year. It includes all classroom activities and extra curricular activities such as: football, basketball, track, vocal and instrumental music, the school paper, FFA, GRA, etc. Since we stopped selling advertisements two years ago and concentrated on a house-to-house sales campaign, sales of the yearbook have risen from 180 three years ago to an average of 350 for the last two years.

FFA

The Alta Chapter has done many things over the past year.

Last summer the officers and Mr. Polzien went to the lakes for three days and made out the program of work.

This fall the Chapter entered an exhibit in the Spencer Fair and a judging team participated in judging events. The Chapter also put on a demonstration.

Five boys and our advisor went to the FFA National Convention at Kansas City, Missouri.

Our money making project this year was selling fruit. It proved to be very profitable.

Plans for a FFA Banquet during National FFA week are being made. An outstanding speaker will be secured for the evening program.

For recreation the Chapter has played Aurelia twice in basketball. Newell and Hayes are also scheduled to be played.

A MOMENT OF GRANDEUR

After the last furious days of winter and during the last days of March, the second floor of Dr. Noble's office became the scenery of preparatory activity. With a great deal of "sound and fury," work had begun; the occasion, the imminent junior-senior prom. Although the planning of the program was the responsibility of the members of the junior class, these stalwarts were not without assistance. The mothers were in charge of the preparation of the banquet meal, and the class sponsors, in charge of the students. Numerous citizens were prevailed upon for the loan of materials, and much appreciated refreshments. A vote of thanks is due to all those who helped in any of these ways, to Mr. Bishop, who had charge of the prom, Miss Aegerter, who headed the banquet, and Mr. Elliott, who directed the entertainment, as well as the other class sponsors.

While one committee worked independently of the others on the decorations for the school lunch room, where the banquet was to be held, most of the others, with one week left until the crucial date, transferred their operations to the Legion Hall — scene of the impending dance. More nights than not, during the last month, were devoted to very necessary labor on the project. The pace was at times less than rapid, but never less than hectic. Somehow, sometime, everything would be in order, and with late hours and the blessings of fate, the "sometime" proved to be the right time.

The decorations in the Legion Hall were to be shown on two occasions, the night of the dance and the following Monday night. With dinner preparations in order, the initial apocalyptic moment had arrived, the occasion of the banquet proper. The lunch room was bedecked with painted cartoons of sea creatures, the tables were gold fish bowls, and the girls in billowing formals. The food was disposed of, and the formal ceremonies began. The junior misses and misters provided entertainment intermittently, receiving, as did the speakers, their introductions, from Dean Radke, master of ceremonies. The banquet was at an end, and the juniors and seniors, some of them pausing to find dates not belonging to the participating classes, trickled into the Legion Hall.

The much labored over decorations, hitherto seen only in the rough, were revealed. Under the auspices of dim, colored lights their character was improved, and now the cardboard and paper went a fair way towards looking romantic. The seascape on the east wall, south of the door announced through the veiling of fish nets the theme, Neptune's Garden. In a cave west of the stage (now masquerading as a boat) a smiling octopus guarded an open treasure chest, and in the southwest corner Neptune, reposing in his illuminated sea shell and escorted by mermaids, drove his sea horses. In the northwest corner, the ancient sunken city gave way to the cave of Minnie the Mermaid, where punch was served by the same gobs and mermaids who had waited on tables during the dinner. A colorful coral garden lay on the remaining side of the door.

The opportunity for the sophomores and freshmen to get into the act came with the presentation of the "Sea Show by the Sea Sho," and the softer strains of the Art Kermse Band prevailed through the evening.

The scene described, the object of so much labor, darkened as the "Cinderella" hour struck. The music was gone, and the young hearts and tired hearts dispersed; the former, to smaller or private parties, and the latter, to their comfortable berths for the night.

JANUARY THAW

Mr. Gage, a writer of a little regard and of no little debt, packed up his belongings and family and moved into the old farm home of the supposedly dead Rockwood family. He was contemplating a long period of peace and quiet in which he could finish a novel, which held promise of redeeming him with his creditors. Such was not the case. Just as the January thaw was setting in, the Gages found themselves confronted with three very live and very lively Rockwoods; father, mother, and son. The younger member of the Rockwoods soon became implicated in a romantic situation involving George Husted and Barbara Gage, the young lovers.

With the Rockwoods for boarders, three daughters, suitors, disgusted maids, and Uncle Walter, a Mount Idy type character, to contend with, the Gage family soon became involved in a farcical series of misadventures. Finally, these misunderstandings were resolved, however, and the Gages had a happily married daughter together with two amiable neighbors who had decided that the merits of the Rockwood barn were decidedly greater than those of the house.

HOMECOMING ACTIVITIES

The week of September 28, 1959 began the homecoming activities at Alta High School. At the beginning of the week the classes were busy preparing their floats for the parade.

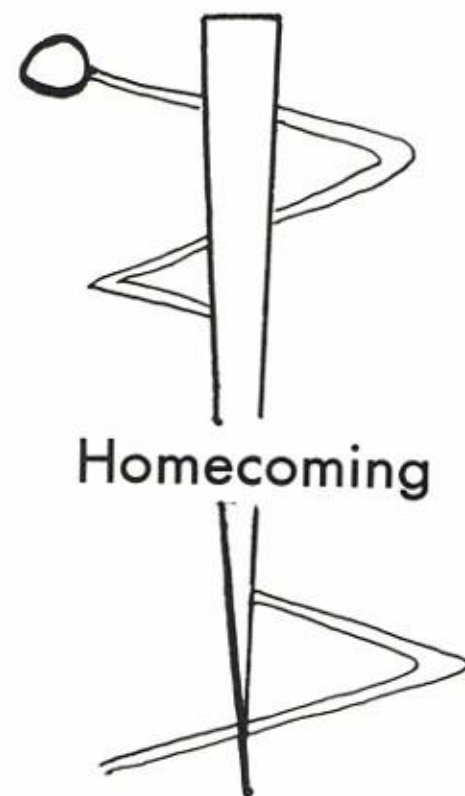

On Thursday night there was a bonfire and pep rally at the park. The coaches gave pep talks and introduced the team.

On Friday afternoon rain made it impossible for the Homecoming Parade to take place. A pep rally was held in the gymnasium. The traditional judging of the class floats never took place this year.

Friday, October 2, the football team did their part to make the 1959 Homecoming a success by defeating Sutherland 22-0. The game was played in rain.

The band entertained at halftime and the crowning of the King and Queen took place. Doris R. Johnson was chosen Queen and Norman Peterson was named King. The attendants were Connie Lichtenberg and Gordon Radke, seniors; Mary Huseman and Jerry Endreson, juniors; Jean Mangold and Robert Radke, sophomores; Karna Bergmann and Paul Ruehmann, freshmen.

These are the young people who have just finished their third or junior year of high school. These are our future seniors and it is obvious that they have gained much wisdom and maturity. The most obvious sign of this maturity is their improved vocal cords which enable them to make more racket than the underclassmen. However, the junior soon finds that this is not an easy year in school. It is a year of reckoning in which any lost time must be quickly regained. This is the year that many students take five subjects and with English, United States history, French, shorthand, business law, bookkeeping, geometry, typing, and physics to choose from, they have a wide selection. Of these, the first two are mandatory and the rest elective. With the ordeal behind them, the juniors can now look back on their speech making, cramped fingers, and mistreated logical facilities with a fiendish pleasure in the knowledge that the class below will be put in the bucket next year.

Although certain sluffers many times became unavailable for duty on the junior projects, the majority have taken part and have been taken in (the activities of course). The non-football and non-basketball players learn to wear smiling faces in spite of adversities met while working at the junior refreshment stand.

Many of these colorful personages have taken part in the local humor contained in the play, "January Thaw," a farce, which perhaps has been inspired by the current housing shortage. Pip, pip and run tun tun, the juniors work is never done. The supposed high spot of the junior year was the Junior-Senior Prom on which the Juniors spent much time, energy, and anxiety on the telephone (person to person especially).

Now their third year of school is finished and the sainted halls are empty for the summer, but it will not be long before they shall again be filled with gurglings, shufflings, scribblings and clangorings as the saints go marching in.

Take a mixture of youth, noise, and sometimes even ambition; shut it up in a schoolhouse and you have the typical Alta sophomore. English and world history are the required courses for this year. These coupled with the electives, algebra, biology, agriculture, home economics, and a required semester of drivers education make up the subject matter which is fed to their creditable young minds. Boys who do not participate in athletics and all girls are required to take physical education two days a week. We have many rock'm, sock'm sophomore athletes, and when these fellows and girls were not busy watching television, many have been known to vent their voices in musical activities, or their ambitions in the F.F.A., F.H.A., and G.R.A. organizations. Some even wandered into the folds of the Scarlet and Black Staff or Yearbook Staff.

The sophomores create much of their own recreation by sponsoring dances after football or basketball games, and a freshmen-sophomore party which takes place twice during the year and is organized once by each class. Of course, a float is also labored over and finally presented at the homecoming football game.

THE FRESHMEN ACTIVITIES

For years the older high school folks had considered these people as only youngsters. Then, "What ho?" they were fellow preps — freshmen at Alta High. With the influx of students from the Hanover and Fairview elementary schools, this turned out to be a year of adaptation for many. There were new obligations, opportunities, and activities to cope with.

The boys and girls alike have mathematics, general science, and English as required curricula. One more subject is imposed upon them in the form of home economics for the girls and shop or agriculture for the weaker sex. With the exception of shop and agriculture, the class is segregated into two groups for each course. This is done to insure the teachers against being too greatly outnumbered.

General math, general science, and English are studies of the fundamentals in their respective fields, and give the student a background for more advanced work in succeeding years. The remaining three are practical courses concerned mainly with introducing the pupil to ordinary problems and in helping him to find his special aptitudes or abilities.

The enthusiasm of youth abounds and these youths were not to be outdone on the less arduous side of affairs. They received a full introduction to their new social status in the form of dances, musical activities, clubs, and athletics. In addition they built a float for the homecoming festivities. They are treated by the sophomore class to a scamper at the roller rink, and in turn gave an impromptu party for their benefactors. Watch out upperclassmen; next year these freshmen shall be wise to the ways of the world.

THE CYCLONE RECORD

The Cyclones, wearing their new jerseys, won all their games but the last one. This victory of Paullina's was a heart-breaker for it meant Paullina would share the conference championship with Alta.

Before they met Paullina this year, and including the 1958 season of football the champs had fourteen straight wins. They finished this season with seven wins, one loss, and a total of 184 points to their opponents 51.

GORDON RADKE
All Conference
First Team Back

Co-captain Gordon Radke led the scoring attack with a total of 68 points. Of these, 56 points were from touchdowns, and the remaining 13 points were made by his excellent kicks. Gordon was a member of the all-conference first team and received recognition as an all state honorable mention and All-American honorable mention which made the Cyclones and their fans very proud.

Two other members of the squad, David Friedrich and Bob Wolfe, were a part of the all-conference team. The skill and gumption of these men helped to increase the enthusiasm of the mighty bulwarks.

John Grieme, a member of the all-conference second team, scored 30 points for the Cyclones and was the leading pass receiver. Alta's other contribution to the second all-conference team was Bob McDonald who, being a junior, will return for more star playing next year.

The players who received all-conference honorable mention were Kent Huseman, Norman Peterson, Myron Radke, and Tom Grigg who were all fine players on the Alta Cyclone team of which everyone was proud.

OUR CONFERENCE RECORD

The Alta basketball season is past but the memory of the games will always last in a students mind. With the happy moments also came the sad ones. Alta high placed fifth in the conference with a record of 7 wins and 7 losses. The overall record for the season was 9 wins and 12 losses. We placed two players on the all-conference teams. A first team place was given to Norm Peterson and Gordon Radke made the second team. Norm Peterson led the team in scoring with 342 points. Kent Huseman led in rebounds with 183. Fun mixed with work on the part of the whole squad has made this season a success in the 1959-60 school year.

TRACK SEASON

The Alta track squad of 1960 ended a successful season, participating in ten track meets. The squad worked hard through the season and at times mixed in a little fun to make the work seem easier. The result: the teams as well as the individuals did very well. The highlight of the track season was finishing second in the conference meet at Aurelia. In the conference meet, Alta won first place in the following events: Gordon Radke, football throw; Maynard Mohn, mile run; Douglas Patten, 440 run; two-mile relay; and medley relay.

VOCAL MUSIC ACTIVITIES

The Mixed Chorus and Glee Clubs helped perform a fine Vocal Instrumental Christmas program, "The Pageant of the Holy Grail." The members and instructors worked hard on scenery and preparation of this program. Although this type of program is different from those in the past years it was very successful.

Next, the Mixed Chorus worked hard to get ready for the Tri-School Festival, which was held on February 1, 1960, at Albert City. The Albert City, Aurelia, and Alta mixed choruses sang together as one unit under the direction of Larry Day from LeMars College.

Since they allow only sixty members to go to contest, the mixed chorus had to be cut down. On April 30, 1960, the Mixed Chorus and Glee Clubs went to contest at Odebolt. The Mixed Chorus received a Division I Rating. Both of the Glee Clubs received Division II ratings.

THE SILVER CHALICE APPEARS

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC ACTIVITIES

This year has been very successful for the Alta High instrumental music department.

The Marching Band performed at all the home football games. They made a very good performance during the half of the homecoming game. The Marching Band State Contest was held at Alta on October 10. The Marching Band received its third consecutive Division I.

With the coming of basketball the Pep Band was put into action. They played at the home games and also at the pep meetings.

The first appearance of the Concert Band was in the Christmas program when they played "Overture to the Messiah" by G. F. Handel and "Mozart's Alleluia." The Tri-School Music Festival was held in Albert City on February 1. The director was Robert Lowry of Sioux City.

Alice Noble, Karen Lietz, Jean Mangold, and Liz Peters were selected to play in the All Northwest Iowa High School Band. It was directed by Weston Noble of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

The Winter Concert was held February 29. The Junior High School Band Concert was held March 29. The Junior High School Music Contest was held at Storm Lake on March 26. They received twenty-three Division I's out of thirty-two entries.

The Pre-Contest Concerts of solo and ensemble entries for contest were held on April 4 and 5. The Small Group Contest was held in Orange City on April 8 and 9. Those receiving Division I ratings were:

Alice Noble (flute), Woodwind Trio A, Woodwind Trio B, Woodwind Quartet, Woodwind Quintet, Woodwind Choir, miscellaneous groups of Woodwinds, and Trombone Quartet.

Receiving Division II ratings were:

Sally Carpenter (flute), Ruth Ann Peterson (flute), Karen Lietz (bass clarinet), Liz Peters (clarinet), Jean Mangold (clarinet), Beverly Lietz (tenor sax), Marilyn Murphy (tenor sax), Carole Walton (baritone sax), Doug Patten (trumpet), Marcia Hutton (baritone), Roger Anderson (trombone), Paul Ruehmann (trombone), Clarinet Trio, Flute Trio, Flute Trio B, and Flute Quartet.

On April 30, the Large Group Contest was held in Odebolt. The band received a Division II rating. They played "Ballet Egyptian."

"A Tribute to King" was the theme for the Spring Concert. They played all compositions of Karl L. King, world famous band composer. He made a personal appearance and guest conducted the band.

JUNIOR HIGH ACTIVITIES

Junior High is a place of preparation for High School. We have a very tight schedule in Junior High and are kept quite busy.

In seventh we are kept busy with math, English, reading, spelling, geography, and science, while in eighth grade we have math, English, reading, spelling, history, civics, science and health.

In math class we learn simple geometry, the use of formulas, and we work with fractions. We discuss the lesson and correct our papers.

The language arts class include English, reading, and spelling. English class helps to maintain our knowledge of the parts of speech, how to diagram a sentence, and practice in giving talks, impromptu speeches, stories and explanations. We also learn how to write essays on various subjects. Reading helps to develop our vocabulary. We discuss the stories that we read and go over the definitions of the new words. Spelling also helps in our vocabulary and also in the enunciation of the words. We have seventeen new words each week.

The study of science includes the study of plant and animal life, the earth's surface and the universe. Health is also included.

We have many extra-curricular activities. We have industrial arts for the boys and homemaking for the girls. In homemaking, the girls have one semester of cooking and one semester of sewing. For the boys interested in sports, we have a basketball team and a football team. In vocal music, the seventh grade has subscribed to a magazine, Junior Keyboard. The eighth grade has studied everything from jazz to symphonies.

We have been getting good experience in writing since the high school Cyclone staff asked us to write one article each week for the newspaper.

We have two skating parties a year and this year we had a Thanksgiving and Christmas party also.

Arithmetic, ancient history, geography, health, science, English, reading and spelling, plus vocal music, instrumental lessons and Junior Band, physical education and various art projects have provided sixth graders with a busy school day.

In addition to covering the prescribed subject matter and the development of sixth grade level abilities and skills, instruction has been designed to stimulate individual initiative, increase the use of source materials and improve study habits.

Three pupil-planned and managed parties — Halloween, Christmas and Valentine's Day events rooms.

— provided special fun for both sixth grade

FIFTH GRADE ACTIVITIES

This is our fifth step, another year of knowledge and education, in learning. Not only in learning but we also have playtime and parties.

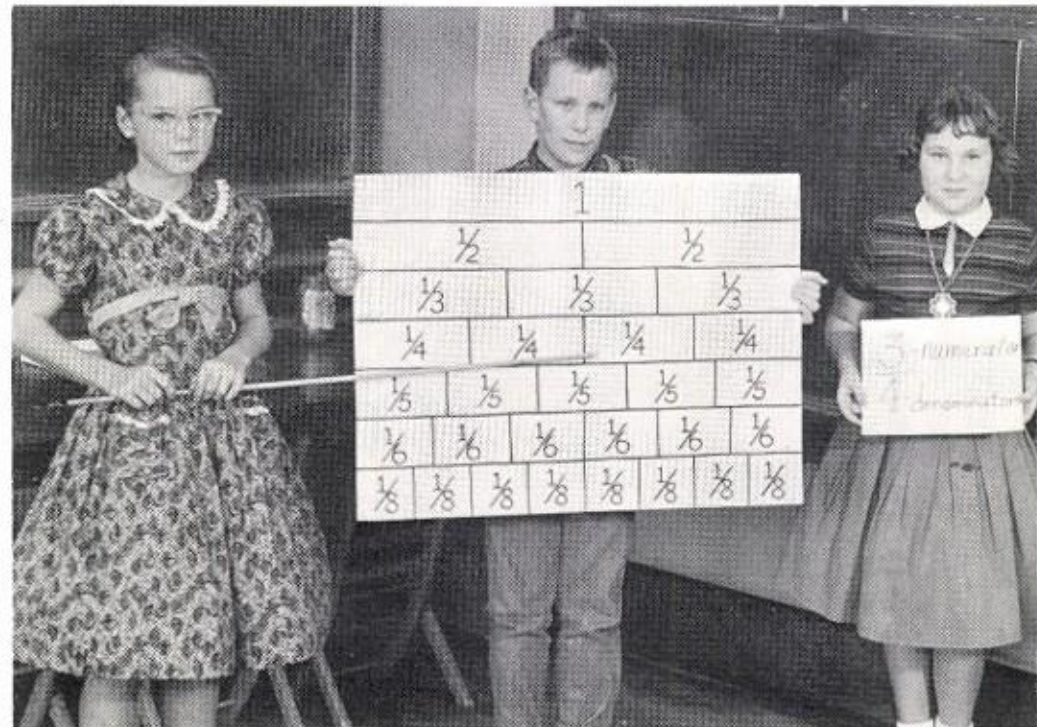

In a year we read two reading books and study phonics. The parts of speech may be hard for some of us but we try our best to learn them in English class.

It is very interesting how one fraction is related to another, and how they are added, subtracted, multiplied, and divided.

In health we have studied different things about our body. A contest to see which room can spell the best has proved a very interesting activity.

In social studies we have "met" our Northern and Southern neighbors and have studied more about our own country, the United States.

We have always looked forward to Halloween, Christmas, and Valentines Day because we have a special holiday party.

FOURTH GRADE ACTIVITIES

We, of the fourth grade, have completed many activities this year. We have studied many things and also had fun doing art projects.

In science, we have studied the weather, space materials, plants, and animals. We studied the plants and animals by bringing different types of them. In our weather unit we made a reference report on the weather conditions. We also learned and had fun doing many experiments.

In English we learned many things about our English language we didn't know. We also looked up things in the dictionary and encyclopedias.

In social studies we learned of different places in the world. We drew our own world maps and also put on a play written by our classmates.

In arithmetic we have been studying fractions. We also get into more complicated work of subtracting and adding numbers plus multiplication and division.

For fun, we work with clay in art class. We had a Health and safety poster contest earlier in the year which proved interesting.

THIRD GRADE ACTIVITIES

When entering third grade we found out we had to be on "our own" by working and thinking for ourselves.

We reviewed our addition and subtraction facts, learned to count money, tell time, measure things, carry in addition and borrow in subtraction. The high light of our year was to learn to multiply and divide through the fives.

In reading we became more independent readers. We used three basic books, The Street and Roads Sries. We acted out our favorite stories for other grades.

English found us writing "real" letters to our grandmothers, the grocery store and the post office. Something ne ww as the making of book reports using correct words and form.

Visits were made to the grocery store, post office(library and to a pond.

We all became true first Americans of Indians in the fall. We built our own tepee, totem pole, and cooked real Indian food.

SECOND GRADE ACTIVITIES

This year has been another step in a child's stride for more knowledge and education. Although small as it looks, it is a great step in a second grader's eye.

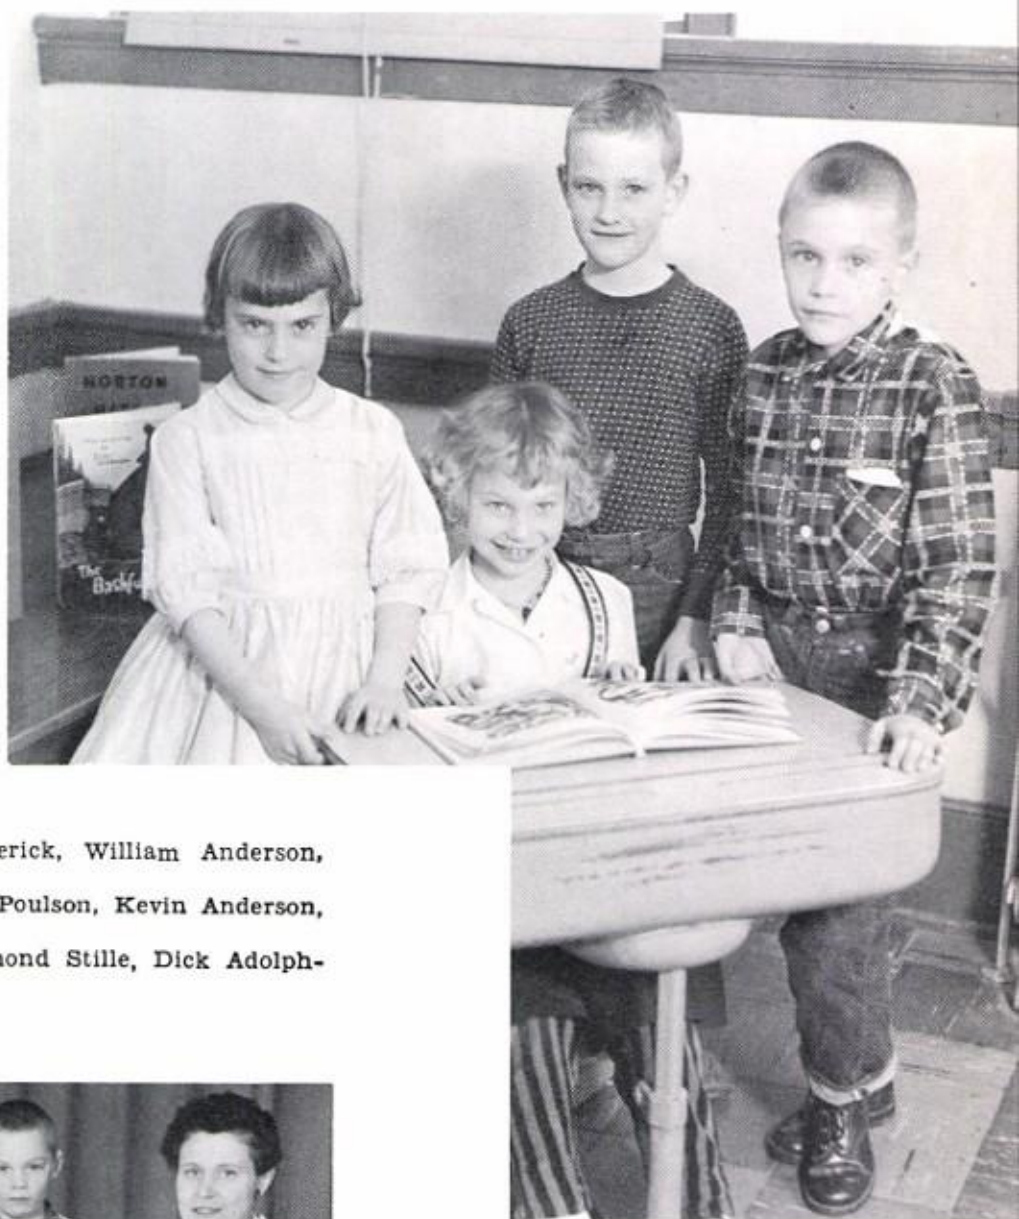

Reading is important in second grade for it is used in all subjects and it is also a subject itself. Other subjects connected with reading are English and phonetics.

Arithmetic has brought more knowledge in measures, money, and numbers.

Science has given us knowledge from the universe to small, ordinary plants, animals, and rocks.

Social studies, music, physical education, health and other subjects help build our minds.

Hard work and play with other children fill out the activities of the second grade.

FIRST GRADE ACTIVITIES

The first graders are very active in their first year of school.

They read stories of Dick, Jane, and Sally. They study numbers, language, and phonetics. They do much drawing and studying of science.

In the spring they grow a garden of flowers and vegetables. They also collect leaves and take a field trip to study birds which they place in their proper categories.

KINDERGARTEN ACTIVITIES

In kindergarten we learn many new things. At first we learn our colors by using colored name tags and colored circles on each table. Each month we sat at a different table with a different colored circle.

We learned to write our numbers up to ten. In the first semester we learned to count to five. In the second semester we finished counting to ten.

To learn our alphabet we made a book containing pictures which we put in alphabetical order.

Also during the year we learned to tie our shoes and write our first and last name. We learned numerous songs and finger plays, also acted out stories.

We colored and painted many different things for art. Also we had different units on families, pets, holidays, toys, winter, and farms. Part of our learning is to share and get along with our family and playmates.

One of our biggest thrills was having our mothers at our Christmas party.

FAIRVIEW JUNIOR HIGH ACTIVITIES

In Junior High we are changing from grade school to high school. Along with this we must assume more responsibilities and make changes in our study habits. We have seven subjects to prepare for each day.

Our activities include physical education class twice a week, music classes every day, some of us have instrumental lessons once a week and art class once a week. During the winter months, the boys play several basketball games with other Junior Highs. We also take part in presenting programs for community meetings.

We find Junior High fun, although it involves hard work.

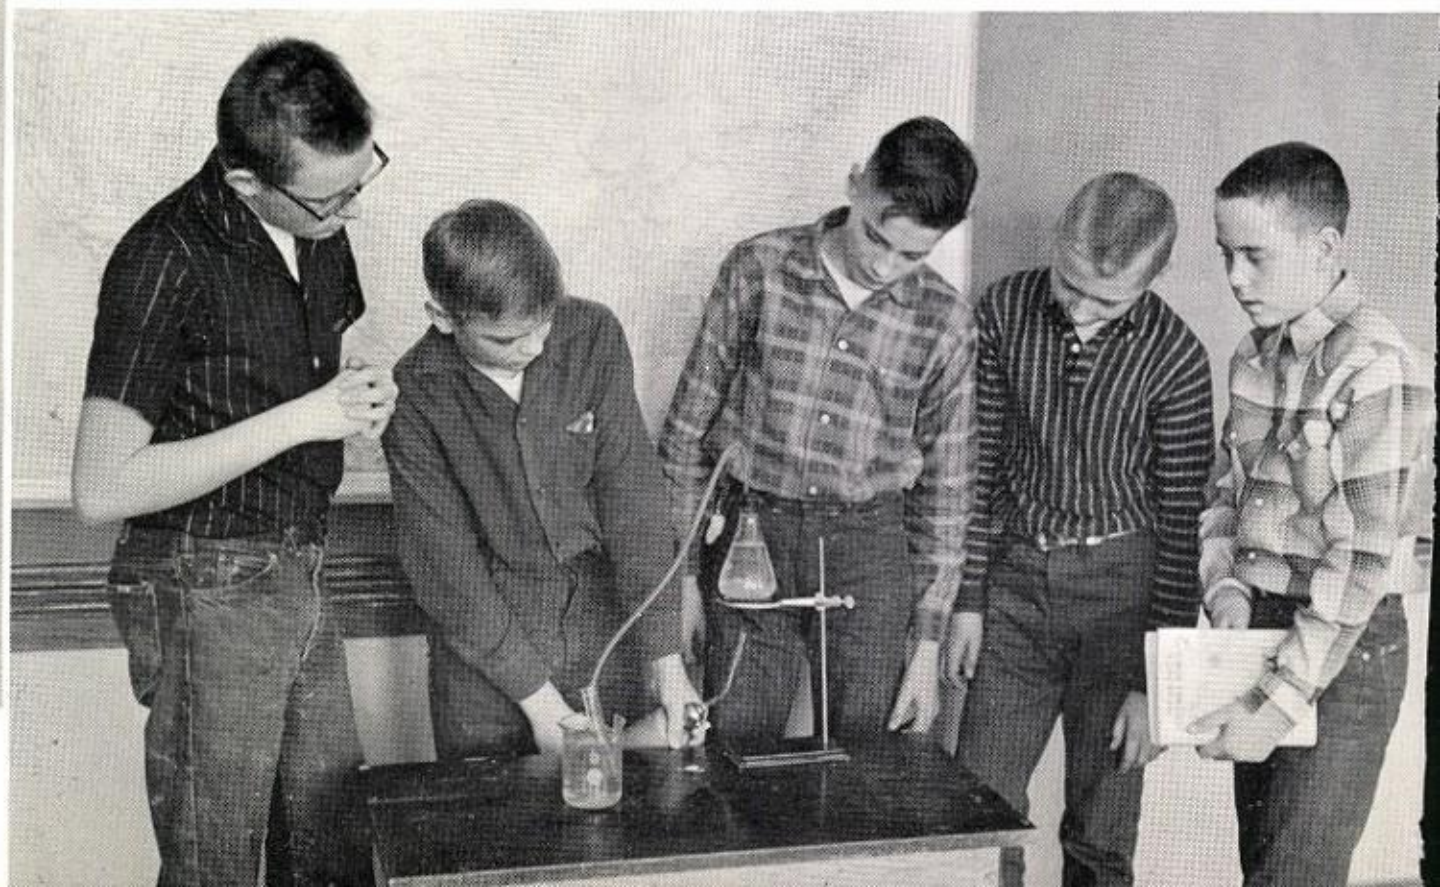

FAIRVIEW MUSIC ACTIVITIES

Music classes include singing in unison and in parts. To help us in sight reading and in rhythm we use syllables and counting. Our musical games such as Baseball and Fine, are a help in learning the musical symbols.

Listening to different types of music by record helps to give the student an appreciation of the classics.

Further rhythm training is achieved by folk dances, square dances and the simple action records.

Pupils are given the opportunity various times during the school year to perform, either by solo or in a group.

FAIRVIEW FIFTH AND SIXTH GRADE ACTIVITIES

Having races at the blackboard in arithmetic seems to prove both enjoyable and helpful in our arithmetic classes.

Correct usage of words and improving our manners are being stressed in our language classes.

In social studies, the fifth grade has increased their knowledge of our 50 states by learning the location, the correct spelling, and the capitals of each state. Also each pupil was assigned either five or six states to write reports on.

In both health classes, each pupil is to make up a crossword puzzle over material covered in the book.

One of the events enjoyed by the pupils was the community meeting in January, at which time they presented two plays, "The Hill Billy Wedding" and "The Little Red Schoolhouse."

FAIRVIEW THIRD AND FOURTH GRADE ACTIVITIES

Arithmetic classes find the third grade learning to carry and borrow, and the fourth grade learning multiplication and division processes.

Reading time is fun and busy. Looking up new words and learning their meanings, learning and reviewing phonics rules, dramatizing stories, and reading orally with expression take up our time. We also enjoy Weekly Readers.

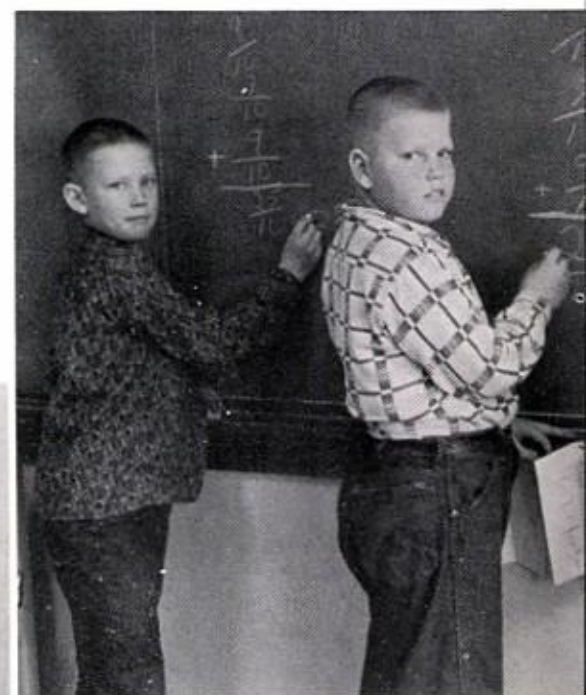

Social Studies is quite different for the two grades. The third grade reads and learns of our community and others like it, while the fourth grade begins history of our country and map study.

Science offers experiments for us to eagerly try.

We hope that by working in groups and individually the best in each child may be brought out.

FAIRVIEW FIRST AND SECOND GRADE ACTIVITIES

Our group consists of nine first graders and six second graders.

We appeared on community programs in October and December. This was fun.

Learning to read is such a satisfaction when we discover we can read books other than our text-books. With sight words and use of phonetic rules, this is made possible.

Number work in both grades is quite easily learned when we can quickly recognize grouping. In both grades each combination is learned as a number story.

"Circles and straight lines," is the familiar phrase when learning to write the manuscript way. Cursive writing in second grade is a thrill, because we are growing up and writing like our older friends.

FAIRVIEW KINDERGARTEN ACTIVITIES

We started to kindergarten Monday, January 18, 1960, with eleven of us enrolling. We plan to get through three Reading Readiness books and one number book. We all want to be able to print our names by the end of the year. We think school is fun.
